

STEP 1

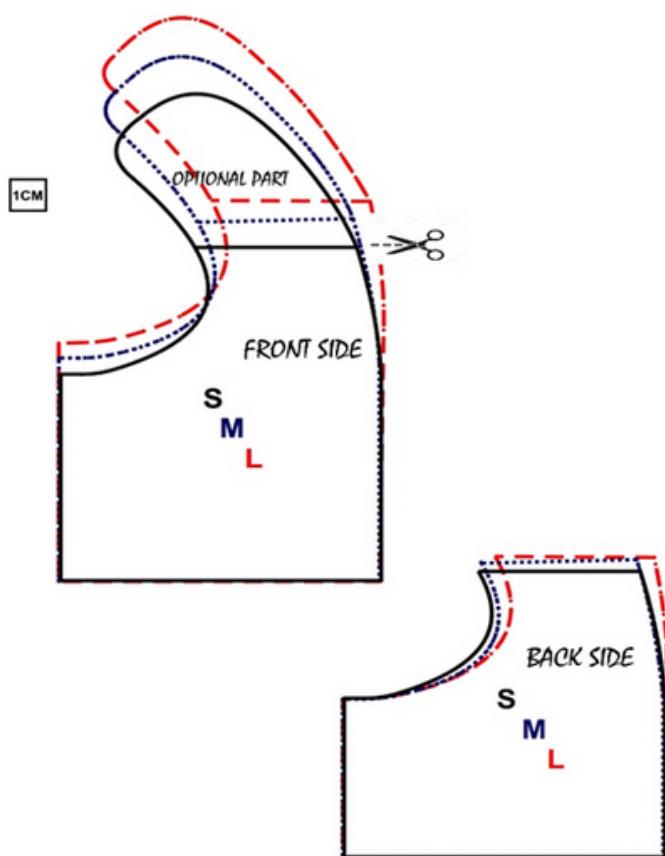

- You will need to print two patterns and tape the two halves together to form the entire pattern, or print one and place it on the fold of your fabric.
- The pattern is available in 3 sizes S, M, L.

The small size “S” should be good for babies between 3 – 6 months;

The medium size “M” should fit babies between 6 months and one year old;

The large size “L” should fit well for children between one year and 3 years old;

You have two option to sew this bib:

1. You can keep the “optional part” of the pattern and sew a classic bib. In this case, you will no longer need the “backside” of the pattern.

2. You can cut the “optional part” of the pattern and follow this tutorial instruction;

The seam allowance is 1 cm/0.39", and it is included in the pattern but it's not represented with a line, so as not to have too many lines overlapping.

- Iron the fabric to remove any wrinkles, lay it on a flat surface, and place the pattern on your fabric
- Use needles to attach them together, in case of using a thin type of paper and cut the fabric along with the pattern indications. In case you transferred the pattern onto a thicker sheet, fix the pattern by hand or place a weight on it and draw the pattern on the fabric, then cut along the drawn line.

STEP 2

Fold the fabric and place the half pattern on the fold of your fabric and cut one piece for the front side of the bib.

Or place the entire pattern formed by gluing the two halves together on your fabric and cut it out.

Then place de “back side” pattern and cut two little pieces , as pictured:
